POLICY INFORMATION

Overseas students must make satisfactory course progress and, where applicable, attendance as a condition of their student visa.

Launceston Grammar must:

- monitor the overseas student's course progress and attendance according to the requirements of their sector;
- identify and offer support to those at risk of not meeting course progress or attendance requirements;
- only extend the duration of an overseas student's enrolment in certain circumstances and advise them of potential impacts on their student visa; and
- only deliver online learning in accordance with the online learning requirements for their sector.

PROCEDURE

The following procedure outlines the steps to be taken for any overseas student at risk of failing to achieve satisfactory academic progress.

Identification of a Student at Risk

The student will be identified as being at risk if one or more of the following factors are observed by the subject teacher:

- Student fails to submit assigned work;
- Student does not reach satisfactory standard on assignments;
- Student fails to achieve satisfactory standard on tests and examination;
- Student does not participate in class activities;
- Student falls behind due to poor attendance;
- Student has difficulty with understanding the language.

Procedure for Intervention

The subject teacher makes contact with the International Student Coordinator or the International Student Coordinator identifies a problem from discussions with the student or on checking the progress report or full school report. If the problem is related directly to a lack of understanding of the English language and the student is in Grade 10 or below, the subject teacher will discuss ways of modifying the syllabus and the method of assessment with their Head of Department.

The International Student Coordinator contacts the student's Homeroom Teacher, Tutor, Head of House and Head of Boarding (if applicable) to advise them of the teacher's concerns and to ascertain if any pastoral problems may be responsible for poor academic performance. If the latter is the case, the Deputy Head (Students) / Head of Campus will also be consulted and may arrange for the student to see the School Counsellor.

The Head of House contacts other subject teachers to find out if the problem is confined to one subject area or is more widespread. This information is then conveyed to all other members of the Pastoral team (the International Student Coordinator, the Tutor, and the Head of Boarding if applicable).

The International Student Coordinator counsels the student indicating the various avenues for support which may include any of the following:

- Counselling with the Deputy Head (Students) / Head of Campus or School Counsellor
- Academic and/or psychological testing to identify any possible learning difficulties
- Time management and examination techniques with the Tutor
- Use of the Overseas Student Study Centre during breaks and study lessons, accessing support from the International Student Coordinator
- After-school Tutoring and Support in the School Library with specialist Maths, Science and English teachers
- Peer-tutoring
- Additional tutoring from subject teacher (lunchtime or after school)
- Boarding House tutoring (if applicable)
- Outside tutoring and language support
- Possible change of subject following discussion with the Director of Teaching and Learning

The International Student Coordinator reports back to the subject teacher, Tutor, Head of House and Head of Boarding (if applicable), outlining the additional support the student has contracted to undertake. Where applicable, the Deputy Head (Students) / Head of Campus and the Director of Teaching and Learning are also notified.

The subject teacher continues to closely monitor the student's progress and liaises directly with the International Student Coordinator at least monthly.

If the student continues to fail to meet the required standard in a particular subject, the International Student Coordinator advises the student that the Director of Teaching and Learning will write a letter (Warning Letter 1) outlining the school's concerns to the student's parents to inform them of the situation. The Director of Teaching and Learning and International Student Coordinator meet with the student and discuss the contents of the letter before it is sent home. This letter will precede a full report being issued.

The student is encouraged to continue with the support that has been put in place, although in some cases it may be necessary to modify the student's subject choice or level of study. This would only be done in conjunction with the Director of Teaching and Learning, International Student Coordinator, Tutor, Head of House and Head of Boarding (if applicable).

If failure to achieve satisfactory standard in the subject places the student in the position where they will not meet the minimum requirements for university entrance, the International Student Coordinator will arrange to meet with the student and the Careers Advisor to assist the student to modify their career plan.

If the student is reluctant to accept the advice of relevant staff regarding a study programme suited to their abilities, parents will be notified and consulted (Warning Letter 2).
