The screenshot shows the 'Child protection notification form' page on the Department of Health Tasmania website. The page header includes the Tasmanian Government logo, the Department of Health name, a search bar with a 'Go' button, and the phone number 1300 135 513. The breadcrumb trail is 'Department of Health > Contact > Child protection notification form'. The main navigation menu includes Home, Services, News, Careers, Topics, About us, and Contact us. The page title is 'Child protection notification form'. The main content area contains the following text: 'If you have concerns for the safety or welfare of a child, call the Advice and Referral Line on 1800 000 123. We prefer all contacts to be made by phone so that we can make sure we have all the information we need to make an assessment. If a child is at immediate risk and Police or medical assistance is required, dial 000. For urgent matters, where a child or young person needs immediate protection, please call at any time. Our general business hours are 8:30am and 5:00pm Monday to Friday, with after hours on-call services available for urgent calls. This online form is provided as alternative method to report non-urgent concerns. Please note this form will require you to give your name and contact details. Your details will remain confidential at all times.' Below this text is a section titled 'Your details' with a question: 'Which area of Tasmania is the child/ren of concern in? *'. To the left of the question is a map of Tasmania divided into three regions: North-West (orange), North (green), and South (blue). To the right of the map is a list of checkboxes: North, North-West, and South.
